Aim: Players will hone their speaking skills and recapitulate the grammatical point of infinitives (full/bare) & gerund

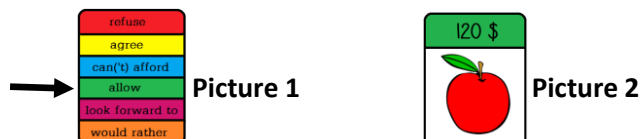

Language Level: Upper Intermediate (B2) - Proficiency (C2) of players: 2+ players or small teams of 2-4 players each

How to play: At the beginning of the round, each player (or team) gets six question-cards. Players roll the dice alternatively to decide who is going to start and then they take turns in a clockwise order. Rolling the dice, they move onto squares and select to use one of their cards depending on the colour of the square they are on. For example, if they are on a square having a green, 120-dollar apple they have to form an utterance including a word or phrase from the green part of one of their cards (see picture 1). If the reply given is both logical and grammatically accepted they get a fruit-badge having the fruit and the amount of money they have earned on it (see picture 2). Otherwise, if the utterance expressed is neither logical, nor grammatically accepted they do not receive anything and play again when their turn comes. The wide variety of lexical options appearing on the question-cards allows players to practise speaking and develop diverse utterances. After each turn, players have to put the card they used on the pile of cards, face down. When they use the six cards they got initially, they will start taking one card at a time from the pile.

Who wins: Winner is the player (or the team) who manages to "pick" six different fruit badges, one of each kind. Otherwise, winner is the person (or the team) who is "richer" - based on the sum of money they have collected from their fruit-badges - when the first player goes to Finish.

Contents:

1 table,

108 question-cards,

9 copies of each fruit-badge (more copies should be printed out),

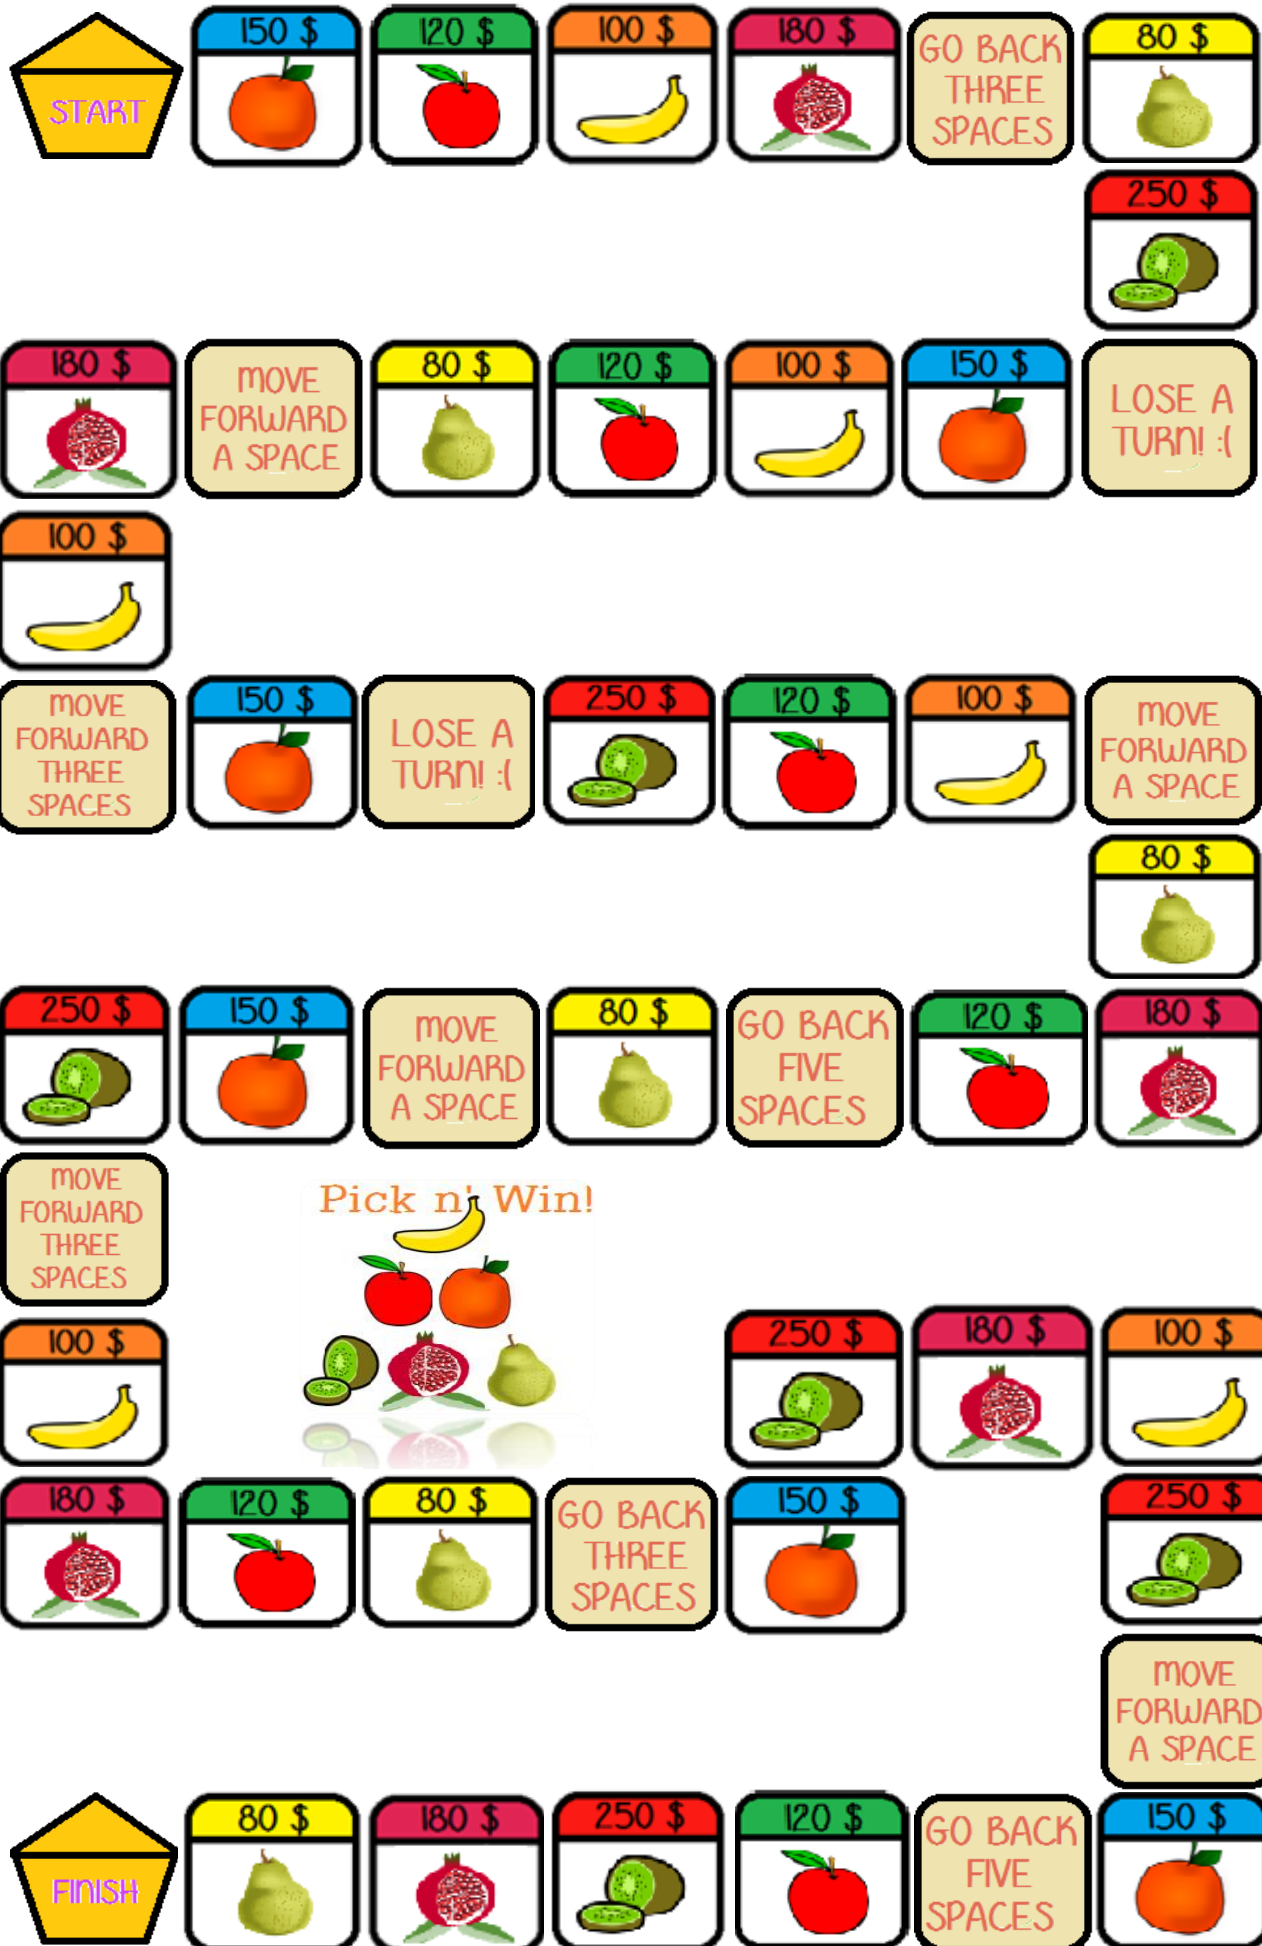

8 bowl-pieces,

a dice

Tip! Question cards, fruit-badges and pieces to be cut and laminated
